NOAA's Request for Comments to Inform the Development of a Policy to Determine HAB and hypoxia Events of National Significance in Marine and Coastal Waters

NOAA is requesting public input on the criteria that it will use to determine HAB and hypoxia "events of national significance" in marine and coastal waters. The proposed language and instructions for providing input are in a Federal Register notice and are summarized below. The recent reauthorization of the Harmful Algal Bloom and Hypoxia Research and Control Act \(HABHRCA\) (Public Law 115-423) requires NOAA to determine whether HAB and hypoxia events are of national significance in marine and coastal waters. Upon such a determination "...the appropriate Federal official is authorized to make sums available to the affected State or local government for the purposes of assessing and mitigating the detrimental environmental, economic, subsistence use, and public health effects of the event..."

Factors to be considered in making a determination include the toxicity of a HAB, severity of hypoxia, potential for spread, economic impact, relative size in relation to the past five occurrences, and the geographic scope. NOAA is accepting comments to inform the development of the policy for assessing these considerations and whether additional factors should be considered. The determination process optimally will include quantitative and qualitative means of assessment. The agency will publish the draft policy for formal public review and comment later this year.

Please refer to this webpage or the Federal Register Notice for more specific information on the elements that NOAA would like to consider, and for details about providing feedback.
